RETURNING—Leave Wallula on Monday, Wednesday and Friday positions in despair of accomplishing any permanent good. Under these circumstances it was not to be wondered at that the mass of the people, who are now active friends and supporters of your Company, had then but little confidence in the prospect of success. But labor conquers all things, and three members of your Board determined to give the enterprise their determined and persevering labors for one year. Under the circumstances, it was not known whether the Company would be recognized by the Secretary of the Interior at Washington City, as entitled to the land granted to aid in the construction of the road, or whether a contest would arise in his office, between the rival companies. After executing and forwarding the papers to the Secretary as required by law, it was deemed prudent to await his action. No reply was received from him until about the 1st day of September when I received letters from the Secretary, fully recognizing our rights to the land grant, and I may here add that within the last week I have received other communications from the Secretary, already given to the public through the press, conclusively showing that neither company than yours has set up any claim in a legal way, or has any right whatever to the land granted by Congress.

From May to September, nothing was done toward the enterprise further than to hold some public meetings, get the people to talk the matter among themselves, and arouse an interest in the construction of railroads generally.

After receiving the foregoing recognition of the Company's rights, a canvass for subscriptions to the capital stock of the Company, and donations of land and other property in aid of the enterprise, was commenced in Washington and Yamhill counties, which was subsequently extended to the city of Portland.

In February last, the City Council of the city of Portland resolved to extend aid to the Company to the extent of interest on its bonds in the sum of $250,000. About this time Col. Cornelius, of Washington county, and Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, of Portland, were invited to fill the two vacant places in the Board of Directors which they accepted, and have since labored energetically to promote the interests of the Company. The prospects of the Company now rapidly improved, and the overhanging clouds of distrust gave away to generous confidence with material support from all quarters where we had a right to expect it. Much to the astonishment of Washington county, we entered into a contract to pay the interest on fifty thousand dollars of the Company's bonds. About the same time a subscription paper was started in Portland, which has been filled up with twenty-two thousand dollars cash, all the leading capitalists and business men aiding it in one or less. Recently the necessary steps have been taken to secure the aid of Yamhill county in the way of interest upon seventy-five thousand dollars of the Company's bonds, with every reason to hope for success. Canvassing for subscriptions of land and cash is still being prosecuted in Multnomah, Washington and Yamhill counties with encouraging success, and the plan hitherto pursued will be prosecuted in every county along the line. In this connection I take pleasure in stating that the Company has recently secured the services of Geo. Coffin in this business, who has volunteered to leave his own business for a season to push the interests of your Company with all the energy which characterizes him.

Negotiations have been commenced to secure a portion of the iron and rolling stock for the first twenty miles in San Francisco. The company has secured fifteen acres of land with ample wharf privileges at the upper end of the city of Portland, for the purposes of a depot, besides several acres for shop, making their lands in the city of great value.

The assets of the Company at present are as follows:

Portland Aid Bonds	$250,000
Washington County Bonds	50,000
Estimated value of land subscribed and donated in Washington, Yamhill and Multnomah	250,000
Cash subscriptions in ditto	3,000
Total	$553,000

After the completion of the first twenty miles of road, the land grant of twenty sections of public land per mile, and the State aid of ten thousand dollars in State Aid Bonds per mile, on the first one hundred miles, will be available in the further prosecution of the work.

The estimated cost of the first twenty miles of road fully equipped, with stations and buildings finished, is, in round numbers, $400,000. It is not possible to build this first section by converting simply the assets of the Company named above, for they could not be converted at any thing like their value if put up at a forced sale; but it will be necessary to issue some First Mortgage Bonds therefor, which the Company is preparing to do at the proper time. It is satisfactory to be able to state that these assets have been submitted to the judgment of the ablest railroad capitalists and contractors on the coast, who are unanimous in the opinion that your Company has already secured the means to construct and equip the first twenty miles of road. It must be borne in mind that this first twenty miles will cost nearly double as much as any other section between Portland and Eugene City.

As soon as the road is completed to Hillsboro, which we hope may be accomplished by December next, it will commence earning something for the Company. No tangible means are at hand for making a correct estimate of the earnings of this portion of the road. With the opening of the road will commence the erection of new towns along the line, the manufacture of lumber and other articles demanded in the growth of the city and the development of the country, and with this prospect it is not unreasonable to expect that the first twenty miles of road would earn at the lowest estimate, five thousand dollars $5,000 00 per month. It could have no steamboat or other competition. Statistics are being collected by the engineers in charge, upon which to base an estimate of the earnings of the line from Portland to Eugene City, but this matter is reserved to another time.

The Board of Directors have had to resort to a suit in order to settle questions in dispute with the rival corporation claiming on the east side of the Willamette river, and it will no doubt require some time before these suits can be all settled up, but in the meantime no one need be concerned about the result. Justice will be secured to us in time—the unnecessary trespass upon the Company's rights in the use of its corporate name, will be prohibited beyond any doubt.

Since commencing the work of grading on the 15th April, the work has been pushed as rapidly as circumstances would permit. At the present time there are fifty laborers engaged on the work of grading, besides the engineer corps. A larger force would have been employed, but could not be to advantage, the character of the work requiring a large number of carts and the carts could not be secured otherwise than by ordering them built, which has required time. The prospect is very satisfactory and stock is thereon the rise, we may rest assured that the work will be pushed with all the energy the means of the Company will permit.

The necessary surveys have been made through the proper channels to ascertain upon what terms foreign capital can be secured. The people need not to be deceived and misled. Foreign capitalists will invest in and build your railroads upon your own request. They are quite as careful of their money as are Oregonians of theirs. While you would not likely invest your money in the building of a road proposed to be constructed but which is not in fact graded through Texas or New York, it is not likely that New Yorkers will invest in Oregon roads until they see something more than maps. No mere paper schemes practicing upon the credulity of the people will succeed. It requires dollars, but a dollars worth of wheat or land can be converted into the construction of a railroad as well as cash. And when enough of the commercial value of the country be it cash, produce, land or labor, has been aggregated, to enable Eastern capitalists to see that we are in earnest, and have our affairs in a tangible business shape, there will be no difficulty in procuring money on the bonds of the Company to further prosecute the enterprise.

Your Directors have let no contracts at exorbitant prices squandering your contributions upon favorites, but with those who have an interest in the State first to reach themselves and do not purpose to let the Company have returned of your charter, nor Superintendent and all others having the incurring of expense and all employees exhibited to a faithful discharge of their duties. It is believed that this is the only way to secure success and it is some satisfaction to know that the plan has the approval of those of whom we expect to ask further aid. Oregon has not yet tried all that it may easily do to aid this great work and especially those along the line who are to be most benefitted by the road. Every man can help some. Let every man do so, and failure would be utterly impossible.

Laborers must be fed, and the farmers along the line can contribute flour, bacon, vegetables and all the comforts of life, when they would have no cash to spare and then they would not feel. Teams must be supplied and supported, horses and their provender are everywhere abundant let them be freely supplied, and the work will not lag. The right of way ought to be cheerfully donated in every case. Cross ties can be easily furnished by persons along the line, each furnishing a few and taking their pay in stock or in labor. If this way let a "railroad spirit" be aroused and stirred up to a deeper depth, and the railroad which is eminently the people's and an Oregon enterprise, will be pushed rapidly up the Willamette, through the Calapooose to Umpqua and on to Rogue river, and spreading its iron arms out upon either side, will infuse new life into the whole country, make your wheat of uniform current value from Jacksonville to Portland, take out every branch, reconstruct every farm, quadruple its value, erect comfortable houses everywhere, give the farmer the full value of his labor and his produce at his own door, create new towns and cities and finally supply and serve the wants of a million of people, prosperous and happy in the enjoyment of one of the most favored spots and climes beneath the sun.

This beautiful picture cannot be accomplished without labor, nor can it ever be accomplished without a railroad. What the beautiful valleys of the Mohawk and the Genessee of New York, the Scioto and Miami of Ohio, were thirty years ago the Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue river are to day. What the first named valleys are to day, your beautiful valleys of Oregon may soon be if we keep up with the progress of the age and construct this railroad. Then, let out the "Railroad spirit"—already aroused,—flag in the breeze and be the last way to keep it alive and in exercise. Let the nearest and readiest portion paper and subscribe something. No man fully realizes the importance of any thing until he has fairly entered. Ear more can be accomplished by a little united effort than any one supposes. There are more than one thousand farmers in the Willamette valley who could easily raise five hundred bushels of wheat in addition to their regular crops, to be put into this railroad one year from next harvest. Suppose by a united effort it was secured, it would make a half million bushels of wheat worth to your railroad not less than a half million dollars, every dollar or bushel of which could be turned into railroad iron by the very fact that such an arrangement as this had been made in the State would give your Company great credit in New York and Liverpool.

In conclusion, your Board of Directors feel encouraged to state that they consider the affairs and prospects of your Company in a very satisfactory, not to say flattering condition. We have no doubt of the success of the enterprise.

And with this unanswered statement of the condition of the affairs of this, the original Oregon Central Railroad Company, we would respectfully submit to the people of the State this proposition: Is it probable that two companies of the same corporate names upon opposite sides of the same river being competing lines for all the trade of the upper Willamette valley and beyond, and roads in every respect, can reasonably hope to succeed under the present circumstances, and at this point in the history of our State? If it is not reasonable to hope for the success of both, does not justice to the interests of the whole State, a prudent regard for the tax payer, as well as the dictates of business economy, urge every friend of the interests of both sides of the Willamette river, as well as those of the Umpqua and Rogue river valleys, to decide in favor of and give their support to that company which has been recognized by the Land Departments of the U. S. Government, and endorsed by your chief commercial city which has secured a respectable basis of home support, which has certainly the best showing for success, and thus enable them to speedily build one main line through to Jacksonville, with such necessary branches as will fully accommodate the entire State west of the Cascade Mountains? Should the interests of foreign contractors, or the personal matters of our citizens, be allowed to prejudice the superior interests of the State and the people? And is it not especially the interest of this city, to see that the company it has endorsed and aided, shall not be unnecessarily embarrassed by rival enterprises? We ask of the people of the State a fair examination and discussion of these questions.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. GASTON,
President O. C. R. R. Co.
Portland, Oregon, May 20th, 1868.

Another matter of fact, which has long served the turn of poets and orators as an historical fact to be checked off the herd by Prof. Evans in his article on Lompoc in the last number of the North American Review. It is the story of the Roman sentry who would not leave his post at the city gate, though the shower of hot ashes fell thick and fast upon him until they buried him from sight. The story went that he was found at his post, lance in hand, and helmet on his head, and this noble devotion to duty has called forth many eulogies of Roman Military discipline. Prof. Evans says the story is the invention of the eye-witness and contemporary of the ruins of Pompeii under the old regime and who told the credulous tourist amongst other falsehoods as a kind of compensation for the immense fees which they extorted from him. Alas for the faithful Roman.

A WET SEASON.—The Terrestrial Fair press says: The Baltimore of the new Imperial Empire shaft would seem to be rather moist. It is asserted that there are working 700 gallons of water per minute, 12,000 gallons per hour, 288,000 gallons per 24 hours, and that at this rate, it will take two weeks to clear the mine sufficiently for work to be resumed. The fifth or there must still be a small lake, some 4,000 gallons to bail to the surface. If the data are all right it lies among along the ocean bed but there are the banks of their little oil river and I can wade right through it and swim even if I can wade in the rice fields of China.

Robert Barnes gave Fanny Fern five thousand dollars per annum for her contributions to the Ledger.

The Ku-Klux Klan

ITS CONSTITUTION AND DIABOLICAL OBJECTS.

The Memphis Post publishes the full organization of the Ku Klux Grand Council, obtained by the seizure of the "den" in that city. The following is the instrument:

ORGANIZATION.

The name of the den shall be the Supreme Cyclopean Council and its officers shall consist of a Grand Cyclops, a Vice Grand Cyclops and a Secretary. All funds coming into the association shall be under the control of the three officers above named, and two Directors to be elected, who shall act as supervising council, and their decision upon all questions shall be final. The meetings shall be called by the Grand Cyclops, when he deems it necessary, and shall be done through the papers in the cipher of the organization.

OBJECT.

The object of this organization is for the purpose of protecting the people of the South from the band of murders and robbers now prevailing over them, even to the last resort, against all—and we pledge ourselves one to the other that nothing shall be allowed to deviate us from this noble object.

ENTRANCE.

Entrance to the lodge room will be obtained through the medium of two raps in quick succession, to be followed by two slow ones. The inside sentinel will say, "Our trust," the outside applicant will answer "is in God." He will then be admitted, and upon giving the grip as detailed in another place, he can take his seat.

INITIATION.

All candidates shall be balloted for in open council, and if any applicant receive three black balls he cannot be admitted. As soon as a candidate is elected, he shall be introduced by a brother appointed by the Grand Cyclops. The members of the lodge, all shrouded, will rise and receive him and conduct him into the middle of the room. Each member of the order shall have a drawn dagger or other weapon in his hand, pointed toward the candidate, and each member will be required, in the presence of the candidate, to swear that should said candidate prove recreant to the oath which he is about to take, they will kill him, and make it his especial duty to do so on the first safe opportunity. As soon as the shrouded brothers have taken the above oath, the following charge and oath shall be administered by the Grand Cyclops, or in his absence, by the Vice Grand:

"Here, in the presence of this skull and the members here assembled, I solemnly swear to be true to the order, and the members individually and collectively, and should I ever prove, by sign, word or deed, betray a secret or a member of the brotherhood, that the skull upon which I now look may be a counterpart of mine, and I hope that all the special relations which I now enjoy may be murdered, that honesty in the men or virtue in the females may not be known in my family and generation, and that all who own my name shall be branded as dogs and harlots. I further swear to obey implicitly the orders of the Grand Cyclops, regularly issued through his Council, and as soon as I receive an order to fulfill it. I again swear that, should a member of this order be in danger, that, even at the risk of my life, I will defend and endeavor to save him, that I will give no outward sign or hint that a person may know of the existence of the K. K. K. unless authorized by the Grand Cyclops, and that each member of this order, as soon as the sign is given, I will ring-place, defend and protect as a brother. I further swear, that I will under and in all obedience obey, bear true allegiance to the South and her laws, as interpreted by the Supreme Cyclopean Council, and when I receive its orders, should I be even in the embraces of my wife, I will leave her to obey them. I further swear that all Radicals and negroes, who have placed themselves opposite to the interests of the owners of the soil of Texas, shall forever be my enemy, and that under no circumstances will I have other connections with them if I can help it, than to "welcome them with bloody hands to hospitable graves." That my family and the family of a Radical shall never intermingle roots, and I further pray that the blood of the Southland, whom I now invoke, shall strike me dead should I ever, either in letter or in spirit, infringe upon the things set forth in this oath. To all of which I swear in honesty of heart and sincerity of purpose. So help me God."

The Disunion Democracy

George H. Pendleton is the declared candidate of the "Democracy" of Oregon and of many other States for President. He maintains that the National Government has no constitutional right or power to enforce the laws in any state against the consent of such State. He argued in favor of this doctrine in 1861, and adhered to it to the end of the rebellion. He has never renounced it. He still holds it as the true interpretation of the powers of the Government. Suppose this man is elected President, and a State denies the right of the General Government to enforce its laws in her limits, as South Carolina did a few years ago,—what would be the result? Pendleton would acquiesce in the dissruption of the Union. And J. S. Smith of Oregon should send him to Congress would adopt the same theory and acquiesce in the same result. As a "Democrat" he would be compelled to do it. People of Oregon! take the safe course and repudiate Smith now, and be prepared to repudiate Pendleton in November.

How they would Interpret a Victory

Whoever shall vote the so-called Democratic ticket in the elections of 1868, will, whether he so intend it or not thereby indorse the past treacherous course of the "Democratic" party. Can it be supposed that that party would not interpret a victory in their favor as an approval of the principles they have held since 1860, when the country went to pieces under their treacherous management? Their leaders in this State have recently often said "Wait till we get power and then we can and will declare our principles." Are the people of Oregon willing to endure the shame of having it said here and abroad that the doctrines announced six years ago by Lane, Whiteaker, Smith, Kelly and all the mouthpieces of "Democracy," have prevailed in their State? We cannot believe that Union men will spare any honorable effort to prevent this stigma from being fixed upon the name of Oregon.

Which is the "White Party?"

A single glance at the election returns received in detail from the Southern States shows that in all of them the victory of the Unionists was assured by the unexpectedly large vote cast for the Constitution and the Union ticket by white voters. In North Carolina the rebels claimed a majority when the returns had been received from counties in which the colored voters were most numerous, believing that the counties populated almost exclusively by whites would settle the question in their favor, but the returns from those counties, to their astonishment, showed large Union majorities. Precisely the same thing occurred in Georgia, where 44,000 whites voted the Union ticket, and in Arkansas, where the Union party have a majority of the white voters. Commenting on these facts, the St. Louis Democrat well asks the pertinent question, "Which is the 'white man's party?'"

Keep the Destructive Ideas Down

The troubles which have beset our country during the past ten years were the result of two great lies in our political system which we had not the moral courage to speak the truth about, and denounce as they should have been. The first was that the Constitution did not create a National Government but was a mere Confederacy of States. The second was that one human being could be rightfully the property of another human being, subject to buying and selling like mere chattels. The war destroyed the last of these doctrines; but the "Democratic" party still hold the first and are trying to reinstate it as a fundamental principle of Government. And here is the turning point in our Government. We must keep this great lie, that ours is not a National Government but a Confederacy of States, down. And we can keep it down only by keeping down the party which would re-establish it.

A Secessionist

Will the people of Oregon send a secessionist to Congress? They will if they send J. S. Smith, a man who stood up before a multitude in Salem in May, 1862 and distinctly declared that he approved of the doctrines uttered by Joseph Lane in the Senate in March 1861. Lane said, "I think for the sake of consistency with all my past professions as a Democrat I am bound to respect the declared will of the sovereign States which, for reasons satisfactory to themselves, have seceded from the Union and established a separate and independent government." This was Democracy in 1861, and was re-affirmed by the present "Democratic" candidate for Congress in 1862. J. S. Smith then said that to be a "consistent Democrat" he was bound to be a secessionist.

Democratic Principles

Let it not be forgotten that the time honored principles which the Oregon Democratic platform re-affirms are the very same principles under which the Southern States seceded from the Union and made war for four years in the Government of the United States.

The Rebel papers in Louisiana declare that "the colored voters if they wish to live in peace and harmony, must repudiate the Radicals and act in concert with the Democratic party." The same papers explain the threat by the quiet remark: "Many free Union have been in the habit of voting the Radical ticket, and there is a suspension in building." It is evident that if negroes would vote with the "Democratic" party, the latter would have no objection to negro suffrage.

The National Constitution and Suffrage

The Democratic papers of Oregon are continually assailing the proposed fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States and Lincoln as the author of it. Their principal objection to it is based on the declaration that underlies it, viz: that universal suffrage can be enforced by a general law in all the States. Thus the allegation is made in the face of the fact that each and every State now has the right to establish and regulate the qualifications of voters, and that no State can be deprived of this right. The result is that in some States the blacks have a less number of qualifications to fulfill than in other cases do whites. In no instance will the amendment, if adopted, change the law as to any other than the single point that it prevents any State from excluding from the right of suffrage on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude any male citizen of the United States who is twenty-one years of age and not otherwise disqualified by participation in the rebellion or the commission of crime. It does not propose to confer the right of suffrage upon any person, but leaves that entirely with the States. It will be as easy for Congress to enforce universal suffrage under the amendment as it would be under the Constitution as it now stands. The fact that this amendment was framed with special regard to avoiding any interference with the suffrage question. Yet it is charged by unscrupulous party leaders that it would be used by Congress for the purpose of enforcing universal suffrage, the very thing it was intended to avoid.

But it is not attempted to sustain this charge against the amendment without resorting to the customary sophistries. The amendment, say these political quacks, secures to all persons born in the country the rights of citizens, suffrage is a right of citizenship, therefore the amendment must confer the suffrage on all citizens. This is a favorite method of argument with Democratic editors. They labor to convey the impression that to be a citizen is to be a voter. All ought to know, and no doubt all except those who are imposed on by false reasoning, that political teachers do know that every man, woman and child may be a citizen, but that suffrage is always regulated and limited by statute law.

The old Constitution, under which is denounced as born of the idea of negro equality, declares that the citizens of each State shall be entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States. It is an incontestible fact that in a number of the States negroes have always been citizens, and that among them other privileges they have always enjoyed the right to vote. This provision of the original Constitution is much more sweeping in its language than the fourteenth amendment. On the "Democratic" theory of constitutional interpretation it would confer on the negro who comes from Massachusetts or New York where negro suffrage has always existed, to this State where our own laws prohibit negroes from voting the right to vote in defiance of the laws of Oregon. The language of the fourteenth amendment is that "all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside." And that "no State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the liberties or immunities of citizens of the United States." Can any one explain how universal suffrage could be enforced under this provision any more than under the clause of the original Constitution which we have quoted? The truth is, neither this clause of the original instrument nor the language quoted from the fourteenth amendment refers to suffrage at all. But if either were liable to this construction, it would certainly be the former instead of the latter.

Position of the Enemy.

It is always wise before going into battle to possess exact information of the enemy's position and designs. Thus we can fight with our eyes open, knowing where to mass our forces and where to deal blows which will most effectively tell. In the present contest it must not be forgotten that all the questions at issue arise directly out of the war of the rebellion. Rebels confess themselves whipped and that is all. Their Northern political allies still protest against the results of the war. This then, is the position of the enemy. Can there be any safety but in keeping the Government out of the hands of this combination all of whose elements are known to be hostile to every principle on which it has been conducted and preserved during the past eight years?

Mr Mitchell's Speech

A fine Union meeting was held at the Court House last evening. It was addressed by Hon. J. H. Mitchell, who delivered a very able, argumentative and interesting speech. The numbers in attendance attest the interest which is felt by Union men as the canvass progresses. Mr. Mitchell gave an unusually clear exposition of the rise and growth of the "Democratic" party and the progress of the "time honored principles,"—showing that they originated in rebellion against the Government during Washington's Administration, and that they produced the great rebellion of 1861. Few or none of our speakers have done more effective service during the campaign than Mr. Mitchell.

Renewing their Pledge

Said Joseph Lane in March, 1861: "What ever the causes may have been which impelled the seceded States to a separation from the other States, I am bound to respect the expression of their sovereign will, and I heartily reprobate the policy of attempting to thwart that will under the pretense of 'punishing treason' and 'enforcing the laws.'" J. S. Smith endorsed this doctrine, and his party acted on this policy, throughout the whole period of the war. To these principles the late "Democratic" Convention of this State "renewed its pledge of unwavering fidelity."

Good Prospects

Reports from all parts of the State are highly encouraging for the Union cause. Canvassers of the progress of the campaign in favor of Logan are received from all quarters. The Union party is thoroughly united and working in every county with determined energy. Let our friends in the Willamette valley spare no possible effort. We can win if we will. Let it not be forgotten that a vote for LOGAN IS A vote for GRANT and COLFAX.

The Idaho World acknowledges that it now gets telegraphic news from the Portland dailies as soon as from the Salt Lake News, though the distance from Portland is the greater. California now is two days later. It is accounted for by the fact that the express and mails on this side make better time.

No measures were ever taken to build a Pacific Railroad until the Union party got control of the country. Buchanan offered $150,000,000 for Cuba, as a piece of slave territory, but it did not suit the policy of his party to do anything for the great West by giving Government aid to build a railroad to the Pacific.

Senator Stark and Representative Shiel, the "Democratic" members of the Oregon delegation in Congress in 1862, voted against a Homestead Law. The "Democratic" party always opposed every measure of this kind which was calculated to give work homes for industrious settlers on the public domain.

The result of the late judicial election in Wisconsin showed an increase over the Union majority of last fall of 2,370 votes. The vote was very heavy in the judicial election, having never been exceeded but once in the history of the State.

Gen Grant

We are pleased to learn that the leading men of the Democratic party take no stock in the Herald's attack on General Grant, and feel disposed to discountenance from their party ranks such false and unscrupulous editors as carry on the mean warfare upon them. We shall not ask or allow any man to vote with us unless he can feel free from party control, and is prepared to accord to every man all the rights he claims.

In fact, the Democratic party is the only party that ever had a chance to elect a President, that has not made a soldier its candidate. Almost every election has resulted in the success of the great commanders of the war and executed the will of the people in preference to always civilians commanding all the while the civil power—the administration, the respective statesmen and the unpolluted Americans and sons of the rank and file, who are, after all the best judges of military qualifications in a country that the laws of nature are not against, are of sound mind and judgment.

General Grant was a man of an extensive turn, and free of popular appreciation pursuing the ordinary walks of life. Such he would not, and has not, and I do not mean to say that having in any manner disgraced the party he has. He has discharged the duties in the war office with a calmness and fidelity equal to the economical administration of the government, while his official course, according to every loyal war record, but showing enlightenment and firm action, with a correct knowledge of Southern character, all point him out as the man, whose influence at the head of the nation will act as if in the troubled waters to win back a cheerful peace and an operative prosperity.

I am no partisan spirit that we second this nomination. Peace can only come when firmness and justice combined are administered by one who commands the respect of the whole American people. Record.

The First Gold Mining in California

Although the fact has heretofore been published it is not generally known, that gold diggers were worked on California long before the discovery of gold at Sutter's mill in 1848. Documentary evidence of this interesting fact has just been published by the Star in the shape of a letter addressed by Abel Stearns, of Los Angeles, to Louis R. Bull, Secretary of the Society of Pioneers. Mr. Stearns, who came to California from Mexico in 1829, nearly forty years ago, says that on the 22d of November, 1842, he sent by Alfred Robinson, who returned from California to the States by way of Mexico, 20 ounces of gold, weighing (troy weight) 19 pennyweights of gold, to be coined by the United States Mint at Philadelphia. The Mint assay was returned August 6, 1843. The gold was taken from placers first discovered on March 1842 by Francisco Lopez a native Californian at San Francisquito, about 35 miles north west from Los Angeles. Lopez while resting in the bush with some companions during a hunt for stray horses, dug up some wild onions with his sheath knife, and in the dirt discovered a piece of gold. Searching further he found more pieces and on returning to town announced his discovery. A few persons, mostly Sonorians who were accustomed to placer mining in Mexico, went to the San Francisquito placers from this time until the latter part of 1846, when the war with the United States disturbed the country, and operations ceased for a time. The U. S. Mint proficient for the assay made for Mr. Stearns in 1843 is now in the archives of the Society of Pioneers. There has been a report that gold was dug in this state as early as 1831, but these are so from the fact that shipments were made of bullion received from New Mexico and Sonora. The existence of gold in California had doubtless been known in a limited way but the first known working of a mine is that recorded as above.

Democratic ideas seem to be making rapid progress in England. Goldwin Smith has delivered a lecture recently before the Reform League, in which he said that he thought it impossible to resist the conviction that the so-called rights of hereditary monarchy were dead, and the House of Lords must either have to be abolished or made to bow to approach the constitution of the House of Commons. Whether he said so or not, no fair-sighted man can fail to see that such is the fact. Prince Albert Edward prove a rake let him show that he has the heart and brains of the Georges and England will not be long in fitting some peaceful way to become a republic in name as well as in fact. Let English radicals take this point in that another commoner shall be raised to the peerage, and it will not take many years to make the House of Lords contemptible, and the claim of noble Lords absurd.

The Jumel Divorce Case. The developments in the field of research are not only peculiar but horrible. According to the Rev. Dr. Mrs. Judd complained that he liked his books better than his wife, called him an old monk, and taunted him as being "no company for anybody who had any life in her." The lady appears to have been subject to spasms of temper on occasions and disliked her husband's calm treatment of her complaints. At one time she tore up a valuable manuscript at another, she clenched her hands in the Doctor's hair, and gave him a shaking with a touch grin upon her countenance, and again she smashed a chair to pieces in a fit of passion exclaiming "Damn it." Her favorite style of affirmation and denial was, "By G—d, I will," and "By G—d I won't." In the course of the examination the facts about the death of their child were elicited, and both Mrs. and Dr. Judd wept profusely at the remembrance.—N. Y. Sun.

In his recent speech on the Irish question John Bright had occasion to quote from the one hundredth and twelfth psalm. He spoke of the psalm as written by "the mighty king and lord and prophet." Whereupon a newspaper critic ran him. Mr. Bright that the psalm in question has never been assigned to David, and is thought by Ewald to have been written long after the return from Babylonish captivity.

Of Fenimore Cooper's letter "On a Spiteful Letter," the Tribune says: "To see Napoleon on the rock of St. Helena turn round and run after his cocked hat which the wind might have blown off, would be as great a descent from the sublime to the ridiculous, as the said exhibition of childishness on the part of the author of 'Le Monnoman.'"

A New Bedford paper tells this story: "A collector of customs in this section of the State, who served in the volunteer army and lost a leg in the service, some months since received a circular letter from Washington, calling upon him, as a federal officeholder, to contribute to a political fund. He replied that he had no money to give having already paid for the place he held by the contribution of a limb in the struggle for the Union."

The Springfield (Mass.) Republican says: "The country is singularly fortunate in the two officers who are called to deal with the Ku Klux Klan, General Meade and General Thomas are the very ideal of military governors under such trying circumstances. Cool, capable and collected, conspicuously itself will feel rebuked and mastered under their steady glance and the firm pressure of their manly hand."

A printer at Paris wrote a tragedy called Ashes which he printed in the most beautiful type at Didot. A copy to the celebrated Bourbon printer at Parma. "What do you think of my tragedy?" asked the author. "Full of the unities, exclaimed Bodoni, your characters are perfect exquisite especially the quoins."

A man who was dining at a fashionable restaurant lately annoyed at the exhorbitant bill asked the waiter who brought it, his master's name. "Partridge, sir." was the reply. Partridge! exclaimed the guest "ill suit him to Woodcock by the length of his bill."

Rev. Dr. Breckinridge of Kentucky has come out for Grant. He says he "esteems him the first man for the Office of President in America as well as the best type of the best sort of an American gentleman and a genius, dazzling everybody with the brilliancy of his intellect but a man of great ability, of unsurpassed judgment and of an inbounded fairness and honesty."

The correspondent of a London paper, with the Abyssinian expedition, revives the story, told by Brion the African traveler, about the natives of Abyssinia cutting steaks from the body of a living ox. Three officers of the Fourth Regiment have written letters to their friends at that station, in which they state that they actually saw the transaction.

Last year the wheat imported into England amounted to $84,000,000. In 1867 the United States imported $4,000,000 worth, and in 1868 Russia $21,000,000.

The Boston papers say that $4,000 have been subscribed for that place for the Oregon and Idaho Telegraph, and it is expected the amount will be swelled to $5,000.

Size of the Stones of the Pyramids.

Figures say very many will differ from me in opinion, and say I had things in order to my lack of taste and want of appreciation of the so-called wonderful; but I am bold to confess that my first impression on reaching the pyramids of Sakkara was one of disappointment. From what I had read and from all I had heard tourists relate from time to time regarding the wonderful size of the blocks of stone composing those great structures, I was led to imagine that the individual blocks of stone were of large dimensions, a difficult matter to form any idea of, and one depending on the manner in which the eye was pulled upon the other. The blocks of stone when I looked well at them, did not convey to my mind any very exalted degree of magnitude; neither could I for the life of me measure to a fifth ability where laborers as we would were numbered by the thousand, in raising any one of the blocks of stone comprising the mass of the pyramid from the base to the summit. To put this matter to a more practical test, we carefully measured some of the larger blocks in the Gizeh pyramids, and by calculation we found that the heaviest block of stone making up the structure of the pyramid had not exceeded two and a half tons, and that by far the greater part were of course much lighter. As there was so much to be seen at Sekkara, and as there is any interest to be gathered from looking at pyramids which mummies have been exhumed, human bones by the cartload in mounds of debris, sand and general desolation we took past without much delay along the edge of the desert towards the great pyramids of Gizeh. The distance is about 8 miles. To the west a low ridge of hills hides the great expanse of sandy waste stretching away through Lybia whilst to the eastward the rich fertile alluvium of the Nile valley extends for a width of twelve miles to the base of the hill behind the city of Cairo. What struck me as being most singular and remarkable was the line dividing the rich and surprisingly fertile land of the Nile valley from the sandy sterility of the actual desert. The division is not a gradual one but sharply edge to edge the desert and the alluvium meet and just as the sea line is clearly defined upon a sandy beach so the green herbage abuts abruptly against and meets the dreary [illegible].—Land and Water.

The Giant Ostrich of Madagascar. In the year 1850 two enormous eggs, found in the bed of a stream in Madagascar, were sent to Paris accompanied by a small portion of each egg, and on careful examination by the naturalists of the Garden of Plants it was ascertained that the remains belonged to a species of the ostrich family of vastly greater size however than any now known to exist. The largest of these eggs measured about thirteen and a half inches by nine and was estimated to be equal in capacity to six eggs of the African ostrich, twelve of the American and to twelve dozen of the common hen. A cast of this egg is, we believe, in the magnificent museum of our Academy of Natural Sciences. The finding if was supposed to have been nearly 11 feet high.

Another nearly perfect egg, of this bird named aepyornis ostenosis by the Paris naturalists, was sent a few years ago to London where it sold for an enormous price and during the present year still another has reached Paris. This was found in a sandy alluvium at a depth of about five feet, and is entirely perfect with the exception of a small hole at one end through which it had probably been emptied by some native in early times. The dimensions of this egg are much the same as the one above referred to, the capacity is about 160 cubic inches, or more than two gallons.

Remains of these gigantic eggs are very numerous among the natives of that portion of Madagascar where they are found, and are held in high veneration. Perfect specimens are however very rare. There is a tradition in the country that the bird is still in existence in the interior although this is very improbable. That like the rhinoceros, the solitaire and the great auk it has disappeared within the historical period is quite credible. The natives maintain that the bird laid but one egg, always dying soon after.

"Well if this ain't mean!" said an indignant pickpocket. "Here's this fellow a goin' about with this here yeller chain and when I pulls it out there's no watch on the end of it. The con-but of these flashy clerks is enough to break the heart of a poor fellow like me, as has to depend on his trade for a livin'."

Albert C. Greene, author of "Old Grimes," was engaged for several years before his death upon a humorous poem, into which it was his purpose to weave every genuine Yankee phrase that he could gather. It grew year by year waxing to a beautiful epic, and is soon to be published.

A Street Row.—A gentleman was walking down Montgomery street on Tuesday, very tidily dressed, wearing a Washington Straw Paper Hat, which had seen better days. A man from the [illegible] asked him what he would take. Answer, whisky. Then asked him to take a cigar. Answer, I wish to get one just like it. Then my business is in the upper Mercantile, where I can buy here [illegible] off in their store. They refuse, charging me something for each little [illegible]. Finally I went to Sacramento where I purchased the hat of Mussell, offer which I was yesterday. Last steamer I might up to Portland, and of course my silk hat was too heavy to wear during the hot weather so I was compelled to call on Mussell after again and get this hat. I came very near purchasing three hats. On the last many different styles. Out of all me it was hard to say which I like. I will ordinary to call to him so in [illegible] and [illegible] only a few doors off. The gentleman immediately started for Mussell's Hat Store.

Although many persons are exceedingly hard to please, particularly in matters of dress, yet it is now generally conceded that no lady or gentleman however fastidious they may be, can thoroughly examine the splendid stock of Dress Goods and Clothing now offered so cheap at KOHN & FISHEL'S, No. 90 Front street, with out finding just what they want. Any person can illustrate this fact by trying the experiment.

"Oh! That will be Joyful!"

When [illegible] Hyde to the Bible and wrote that sentence, [illegible] getting rid of [illegible].

WEDNESDAY EVENING, May 27.—The Hill wing of Democracy returned on Wednesday from the upper coast, and brings a few additional particulars of the shooting affray on the steamer Oregonian. Captain Watson of the Oregonian reports that he first met the Hill party at Port Orford. He says that he brought down a posse of men to arrest a man with the name of Frank Harbor, printer, and who belongs, the Captain says, to the Democratic party in Salem. Harbor, he says, established a paper in Port Orford in a manner in which little grace was shattered. He says that the schooner must have gone to pieces. There is much feeling left now but the lives which it made it up to the Indians. The crew of the Oregonian found the skeleton of the man Estelle with a little flesh on the ends of the fingers and toes, and the Indians say they killed the rest of the boilers at low water. This fact seems to differ with Hendley's statement of tapping the boiler. There are various rumors in the neighborhood one of a fight in running order which, if so, the Democrats say, belong to the Oregonian, and others of a similar kind intended to make the affair more contemptible and mysterious. It is even difficult to understand how the Oregonian got on three rocks unless she were driven under by the wind, or drafted a while lying to in a gale. The weather is reported to have been very bad at that time. It is much to be hoped the Hyanda will be able to clear up the mystery.

SUPPLY OF MINERS.—It will be learned that a sailing over two months ago a party of ten or twelve miners from here, Fort Townsend, where they chartered the schooner Lemmi Lemmi for a prospecting trip up to the neighborhood of Stickeen river. The Victoria Colonist of the 22d reports the probable wreck of the schooner off cape Scott, and, says supposed, the loss of all on board. The news came to Victoria by the sloop Leonede which arrived at that port on the 21st. Two men were washed ashore from the wreck were recognized as Sullivan and Melville of the prospecting party, and the Indians of the vicinity say that they found, altogether the bodies of ten white men and three Indians. A letter from Bella Bella dated May 12th, published in the Colonist of the 25th has the following confirmatory paragraph: "We arrived here (24 hours ago and are taking in wood, had a very rough passage across the Sound last night, and nothing but a good anchor saved the Lark. The Wyandot left here five hours before our arrival. At Fort Rupert we heard of the loss of an American schooner at Nah Whitti. Eleven bodies had floated ashore. I think it must have been the Louisa Bowar, Capt. Sullivan, who left Fort Townsend a day or two since with twelve Siwash foot miners for the st keen river."

A TERRIBLE AND FATAL TRAGEDY.—Mr Gaston, of Walla Walla, who arrived in this city yesterday afternoon, informs us that on Tuesday morning a man named Kingslow, residing near the Santa Rosa Mission, about six miles from Walla Walla, became enraged at his wife, shot and killed her, and then shot and killed himself. They had been separated for some time through some domestic infidelity, and the husband had possession of their three children. They, it seems, had frequently met, and had quarreled about the children on Tuesday morning, Kingslow being about to start for the mines. His wife went to the place where he was living to make an effort to get the children and during the interview Kingslow had the imagery and perpetrated the double crime above related. When Mr Gaston left, both persons were dead. There was also a rumor that one of the children was killed in the melee, but Mr. Gaston does not credit that.

BURGLARY.—Mr S. F. Schrader's saloon, 25 North Front street, was entered by burglars some time between 12 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning, by the front door. The rogues—it is presumed that there were more than one—unlocked the door by the use of some burglars tool the marks of which are plainly visible on the brass parts of the lock. Having gained the inside they went round back of the counter and broke the money drawer from its fastenings and carried it off. Fortunately for Mr. Schrader, it contained but a small amount of money—only about two dollars in dimes and a dollar or two in small currency bills. They also took the key from the inside of the door and carried it away, leaving the door open when they decamped. Mr Schrader was asleep in a back room but heard nothing though it is evident that the breaking of the drawer must have made a considerable noise. He was not aware of the burglary till awakened at 4 o'clock by some person who, upon passing, found the door open.

MAN OVERBOARD.—Monday night as the steamer Senator was returning to Oregon City, after the ratification meeting, and when just at the head of the Clackamas rapids she encountered a number of fishing boats carrying lights. Seeing them bobbing around, Capt Pease, supposing something might be wanted, rang the stop bell, when one of the deck hands named Austin, was suddenly aroused from sleep. Running out upon the [illegible] deck to see what was wanted, he stumbled over some obstruction and fell overboard. One of the [illegible] n, Hawkins, seeing the mishap, hastened to the spot and rescued the man, who, other wise, must have been in great danger of drowning, as he was not able to [illegible]

NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS.—We learn that at the annual meeting of the Oregon Central Railroad Company, held on the 25th inst., James W. Nesmith, J C Ainsworth, T. B. Cornelius, Wm. T. Newby and J. Gaston were elected Directors for the ensuing year. The new Board has not yet had a meeting, and have not therefore elected their officers. The annual report of the company will be given to the public in a few days. We also learn that the company has decided to locate its Portland depot south of Main street, the most liberal offers of not having been made by citizens of the south end of the city.

EMPLOYMENT OF CITY PRISONERS.—Mr. Besser introduced into the Council, Wednesday evening, an ordinance providing for the employment of city prisoners upon the streets and public grounds. By the terms of it, the Street Commissioner may make requisition at any time, upon the Marshal who, if he have any prisoners, shall furnish them, together with a guard to properly escaped. Some time ago, a similar ordinance was passed, but in consequence of defects as to details, it was vetoed by the Mayor. The pending ordinance is intended to supply the place of the former one.

EXHILARATING.—DIFFERENT WAYS OF EXPRESSING IT.—When the Herald says "there was no enthusiasm" at the Administration Monday evening, we suppose it is simply meant that the crowd was not crazy drunk, nor ridiculously noisy. To be drunk and disorderly and to howl seems, [illegible] to the Democratic idea, to be the only legitimate way of expressing "enthusiasm." In that view of it [illegible] there was some "enthusiasm" in a squad of [illegible] fiends who hung on the rear and the flanks of the procession.

THE WEATHER.—For several days it has been evident that the clock of the weather has been trying the experiment of turning Winter in the lap of May—and a pretty wry face it has made of it. As a general thing, truthful people are considered smart, or great, or wise, as the case may be. We think differently in this case, at least, and believe that we could, without any habit but reading, get a majority of votes with us in the opinion that the clock has been making a fool of "himself."

THE PLANK.—The Street Commissioner or some other man has recently fortified the Plank by erecting at the several entrances some very substantial capstans, or, as some people call them, by courtesy turn stiles. N. W. Ladd's bottles will sell of the dry wood sticking up [illegible] handily planted for ornament—they will be ready to make a square even start for the improvement and ornamentation of the place.

ORDER PROCURE.—The following were the arrivals yesterday: Per steamer Senator, 21 boxes suspected [illegible] 50 boxes eggs, 92 gunnies and 1 case bacon, 1 roll carpet, 34 bbl dried apples, 21 boxes and bf bbls butter, 13 casks and 6 bf bbls lard, 8 bales straw, 7 rolls [illegible] and 1,287 qr sks flour. Per steamer Alert, 665 [illegible] 606 qr sks flour 56 sks wheat, 17 casks and [illegible] bbls lard, 6 bales woolens, 13 gunnies bacon, 3,000 [illegible] oak plank.

TOMBSTONE PROCESSION.—The Portland Longshoremen's Protective Union will meet at the Armory of the Fusilier Guard, at half past six o'clock this evening, for the purpose of having a torchlight procession. A band of music has been engaged for the occasion. The procession will carry transparencies with appropriate mottoes, and altogether the hot gubernemen will probably make a very effective demonstration.

COOK-LEE FUND.—We received yesterday from the Canadian Consul, Mr. Cormany, to be added to the Atkins subscription fund. The Bulletin of last evening acknowledged the receipt of a total of $40 25, of which amount $12 25 was from the boarders at the Franklin Hotel, yesterday. We received $12 50 from "Cash" which should have been acknowledged yesterday morning—the contributors of which is home in this city.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—Mr Atkinson, the Superintendent of Common Schools in Multnomah county, has appointed Saturday, the 30th inst., for a meeting of the Trustees of the County Teachers' Institute, to consider the question of appointing delegates to the State Teachers' Institute. The meeting will be at the Central School House in this city, at 9 o'clock A. M. It is desirable that there be a full attendance.

HORSE IN THE CANVASS.—The county candidates did not go to Sauvie's Island, to speak, according to appointment, on Tuesday. They had depended upon going down on the excursion boats of that day. The weather was so stormy that the excursion was postponed and the [illegible] could not then procure any other conveyance. Hence the failure.

HORSE RACE.—To-morrow afternoon, a race will be run between the horse "Vallandigham" and the Victoria mare "Pilgrim"—600 yards for $5,00 a side. The proprietor advertises that the horses are to "play or pay," which means, we suppose that there is to be no jockeying this time. They must run or back square out and forfeit the stakes.

ORDERED TO SITKA.—Battery F, Captain McGilvray and Lieutenants DeBenion, Crawford and Gifford, is ordered to Sitka and will embark on board the steamship Active on the 1st of June for the Straits of Fuca. We are informed that the troops will there be transferred to a ship, chartered to take them to their destination.

TWO women lately fought a prize battle in the neighborhood of Shrewsbury, England for a stake of five shillings. No accompaniment of the ordinary prize fight was wanting, even to the stripping of the towel of spectators. In the third round, we learn, "Mary Sweetring made a well-aimed blow, but Alice on the nose. This was a breach of the rules of the ring, and a row ensued. The champions were then led away to another field where four more rounds were fought with varying success, but by this time the police put a stop to further proceedings. The principals and three of the accessories were subsequently summoned before the magistrates and fined in sums varying from fifteen shillings to a guinea.

GRANDMOTHER WELLES.—A good story is told by an admiral in the navy, showing how Secretary Welles got the soubriquet of "Grandmother." A sailor at Norfolk had received a short leave of absence to visit his grandmother who was reported very ill in Connecticut. Having reached Washington, his funds became exhausted, and he made every effort to replenish, but without success. So his grandmother's name and the paymaster was appealed to but in vain. Finally the leave of absence was about to expire and things became desperate and approaching his old commander he said: "Admiral, if I can't see grandmother, I suppose I can see Secretary Welles, and that will answer every purpose, sir."

A reverend preacher in Ohio, asking the usual question, inquired, "Do your wife have an increase this year?" "Yes, sir," replied the answered, "she had twins—both girls."

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of its Coffee, begs to nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandize, which commands here and in the markets of the Interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. This fraud rendering an extraordinary vigilance necessary, he feels confident of the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Not Quite a Criminal.

From the Sacramento Union

If Andrew Johnson retains his office it is not because he has been approved as a wise and discreet Executive nor because he has not been shown to have come short of his duty, not even to man there has been far enough to prove against him a clear violation of law. He is put on terms with a point, at, in the view of a few Senators, he has not clearly made out a case involving a ground for impeachment. He is not quite a criminal in the common law sense, at least all reasonable doubt that is the reason for his acquittal, and that is the pending view the people will be left to take of the President. Of course, we shall be proud of him hereafter, but in that case the personal aspect of the case is of little importance in comparison to the theory on which he is to be acquitted. If impeachment is to be a remedy only in case of an outrage or crime it may as well be stricken from the Constitution altogether. It is just possible, but barely so, that the American people should give their suffrages for some President or Vice President who is a proper candidate for the Old Bailey, but in no other contingency can we conceive that such proof as has been required in this case could be made out. Even the charge of bribery would fail if the corrupt contract, though amply proved to exist, had not been carried into effect. In case of treason an overt act must be proven, and it is doubtful whether Jeff. Davis himself, if in Johnson's shoes, could be impeached. Had he the intention to commit treason? No, because he believed he had the constitutional right to secede, as Johnson claims the constitutional right to test the laws like old iron, by breaking them. There was no such absurdity as this raised in Humphrey's case. He was ousted and disqualified without an appearance, without a hearing, on the bare evidence of his acts, which were obviously unlawful and in violation of his oath of office, but not more so than those of Johnson. We deny that the motive can ever be inquired into in a case of a clear breach of statute. The intention to break the law is presumed and cannot be disproved. There would be no security in law were it otherwise. If this holds good for the people, ought it not for the President? The former cannot even plead ignorance of the law, but must suffer its penalty all the same. But the President cannot be found guilty of violating law, say his friends, unless you prove that his intention was criminal. Such a decision places all the laws at his mercy. He may, he ought, if this view is correct, let all laws remain unexecuted till he has satisfied his doubts about their constitutionality by testing them. He need not hurry in bringing the laws before a court; there is no fear of impeachment as long as his motives are not criminal. Laws which displease him may be made to hang in the courts for months and years; meantime he may render them useless. The Supreme Judges are appointed by him; he may have opportunity to make the court a mere tender of himself. Is this the theory of our Constitution? Is this what the remedy of impeachment was meant to? Is not the whole gist of the inquiry in case of an offending officer, whether he has done his duty and kept his oath? What matters it about his intentions? We want neither a fool nor a knave in the Presidential chair. The one may do as much harm as the other, and the remedy of impeachment is for protection only, not for punishment. When we consider what Johnson may do, in the light of what he has done, the folly of an acquittal appears enormous. It not only permits him to nullify the laws; it almost justifies him in so doing. As long as he does not have a criminal intent to steal, to murder, to commit treason or some other common law crime, he may freely use his political power to bribe, to expose loyal men to organized outrage and assassination, and to create a state of things such as traitors only can delight in. The effects of his course, impeachment has nothing to do with so long as his motives are not criminal. The doctrine is monstrous. We deny it in all its length and breadth. Said a member of Parliament recently, in surprise at Disraeli's determination to go on with the Government in spite of his overwhelming defeat on the Irish Church question: "Such a course is unconstitutional—is absurd. Are the Executive and the Legislature, distrusting each other, to maintain a show of amity until next year? After the Ministers have nullified the will of the House shall they ask control of the Government for months to come. In Great Britain the Legislature has more power and the Executive less than with us. Yet it is stigmatized as "unconstitutional and absurd" that the Ministers should set up a policy of their own and persist in it and set in opposition to the existing Parliament. That is a monarchy; this a republic. In the former, Executive power is obliged to be the mere servant of the Legislature. In our Government, Johnson has insisted upon being legislator, Judge and Executive all together. That is his crime—the high crime and misdemeanor which the Constitution means shall be ample cause for impeachment. That he has committed it often, persistently, and even maliciously, the loyal people are thoroughly convinced. All the quibbles of lawyers, all the technicalities under which weak or corrupt men may seek to hide, will fail to shake their belief that Andrew Johnson ought to be ejected from the office which he has misused and disgraced.

Tongue

The volubility of the female tongue from the earliest period of writing, has furnished a fertile and inexhaustible theme for the pens of epigrammatists, satirists, poets and dramatists. There is scarcely a comic writer from Aristophanes downwards who has not indulged at woman's expense on the garrulity, fluency, and unfailing powers of her speech. In Congreve's comedy of "The Way of the World," one of the characters are thus made to speak of a lady in allusion to her glibness and inveteracy of talk: "She has got that everlasting rotation of tongue that echo has no chance with her, but must wait till she dies to catch the last word." Let us not, however, charge the fairer sex alone with slippery and endless loquacity. We should bear some of the burden on our own shoulders. I have met in my time with a few men who could dispute the palm of voluble and incessant speech with the most renowned gossip of the other sex. Chiefest of these was the late M. Jullien, who was, indeed, one of the most fluent and indefatigable talkers I have ever known or heard of. Apropos of the volubility of Jullien's tongue, there are many stories. The following is worth preserving. M. Jullien was traveling from London to the country with a party by express train. The party occupied one carriage department to themselves. Directly when the train started Jullien began. The greater the rate of going the faster he talked. No one attempted to speak; no one found an opportunity of doing so. The clock was wound up and set going, it was impossible to stop it. The incessant clatter, and the rapid articulation of his talk, sounded like an elaborate accompaniment to the sing-song sort of music made by the wheels rattling over the rails. After this had gone on for some time without any prospect of its coming to an end, the gentleman seated next Jullien handed his snuff-box to his friend opposite, accompanied by a look that seemed to say, "He's going it now." The friend took a pinch of snuff, handed back the box, and replied, nodding his head towards Jullien, "Had he been among the fallen angels when they were ejected from heaven and hurled into the bottomless abyss he'd have talked the whole time of his descent!"

A Hint on Quoting Latin.—One of the most clear-headed writers we know anywhere, distinguished for his sterling common sense and his pithy, Saxon style sends us the following which we commend to all whom it may concern: "Did it ever occur to writers for the public press that the mass of readers know nothing of Latin, or of French, or any other language than their own mother tongue? I heard a very intelligent farmer say, the other day as he threw down the paper he was reading, 'There, any man who writes for common people to read and mixes an unknown tongue with the English, without translation or apology, is an impostor.' He deliberately insults every common reader and such imposition I never meet without indignation, and I despise the pedant who wrote it."

A Frenchman, named Gange, proposes as a remedy against famine, to establish a philophagic society, which is to encourage useless members of society to kill themselves, and be eaten by their fellow creatures. "Persons who are not necessary for the welfare of society, he says, "as, for instance, celibates, ministers of convents, vagabonds, poets, journalists, and other useless and good for nothing people, might be immolated if they should consider it pleasant to, [illegible]" The amiable cannibal is of course ready to be immolated [illegible] to appease the hunger of his beloved fellow men! This is all very well but what, in the meanwhile, is to be done for the [illegible] readers.

The M[illegible] P[illegible] says that as [illegible] change [illegible] over it, and hereafter it will support and defend the Republican party. It intends to be a live newspaper—an anomally in Southern journalism.

The Great American Desert.

It is but a few years since upon every map of the United States nearly one half of the entire area of this country lying between the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific Ocean was indicated by a yellowish blank, containing no sign of mountains, meadow or stream and really believed to be as it was marked. The "Great American Desert" unexplored, unknown and considered almost impassable, came to be much dreaded and regarded as a mysterious land which must forever be continued a waste and burying ground for those who might be so foolhardy as to attempt the crossing of those hundreds of miles of burning sands. It is not so many years since that this opinion of the plains prevailed to a great extent throughout the United States, and was taught as a portion of public school geography. Even the Mormons when they started from Missouri, confidently expected that if they succeeded in reaching the country lying between the Rocky Mountains and the Sierras they would be safe from further worldly persecution and possibly their existence forgotten by the outer world. What changes have come and how those illusions of extensive deserts in the heart of the Union have been dispelled are circumstances with which every school boy is familiar. That which was supposed to be a waste of scorching sand without a tree, a stream, a spring or hill or valley to relieve the eye, has been found to consist of the finest valleys in the world with living and at mulant streams of water flowing in every direction, fertilizing the soil and furnishing sustenance for countless herds of cattle. Within two years a railroad will have been completed, stretching from this to the other side of the continent, and that which was once called a desert will become a land teeming with life and producing everything required for the sustenance of man, as well as annually pouring hundreds of millions of wealth into the lap of the civilized world. It is safe to predict that this same great American Desert is really the most valuable, and will ere long become the most productive, portion of the United States. During the month of March there was shipped from the State of Nevada $1,018,977 67 in bullion. This is the shipment for one month alone and from a State which ten years ago was almost entirely uninhabited, and which formed a part of the Great Desert. Colorado, Montana, and Idaho formed a part of the great waste also, and now they furnish the world with gold and silver. Wyoming will follow next, and judging from what is expected at Sweetwater, no State or Territory will ever excel this one in mineral or agricultural wealth. California and Oregon furnish flour and wheat to New York, Liverpool, China, Japan and the Sandwich Islands, while less than twenty years since California was considered worthless in an agricultural point of view. The greatness of America's future will be found in the West. That this prediction is correct and generally believed is made manifest by the extraordinary emigration from the Eastern States by land and water. The ocean steamers, the river steamers and the railways, are all crowded to overflowing with the multitudes who form the Star of Empire. Another fact which tends to establish the superiority of the West over the East is, that those who leave for the East with the determination of spending the balance of their lives in the homes of their childhood, almost invariably return again to the West where they are content to continue forever. The great change which has taken place in this western country within a few years is really one of the marvels of the age, and the change which must be produced by the building of the Pacific Railroad and its numerous branches which will naturally spring from this main line, will be even greater and more rapid. A few years more and between New York and San Francisco there shall be no Great American Desert.—Cheyenne Leader.

Gothamites in Connecticut.—If the truth were known, probably the vote cast in the third and fifth wards in New Haven, and sixth of Hartford, constitutes one of the most touching tributes to the memory of the departed known to history. Men, strangers to the deceased, without a social or family tie to connect them, came all the way from New York, to vote in the name of individuals who had been dead for years. Such a characteristic and beautiful trait in this party is almost enough to make a man a Democrat, so that when he himself is gone he shall still have those who will bear his name, remember his virtues and vote the straight ticket "in his room."—Springfield Republican.

DR. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Although the fame of this renowned tonic rests mainly on its astonishing cures of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Intestinal disorders, it is equally efficacious in nervous complaints. Thousands of ladies resort to it as a remedy for hysteria, fluttering of the heart, nervous headache, vertigo, general debility and all peculiar disturbances and derangements to which as a sex, they are subject. It cheers and lightens the depressed mental powers as well as strengthens the body, and its use is never followed by any unpleasant reaction. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere.

I would be glad to get a case into the United States Court and get a decision. That would forever stop the mouth of Myers and his misrepresentations. THESE WHEELS UNEQUALLED AND UNRIVALLED in the United States or the world, have been fully tested on this coast, many being in use at this date, driving all kinds of machinery. Saw Mills, Flour Mills, Quartz Mills, Woolen Factories, &c., &c.

CAUTION.

To all whom it may concern:—I hereby give notice that the so-called "Shipley's Pacific Turbine Water Wheel" is a direct infringement in a copy of the "James Leffel's American Double Turbine Water Wheel," and its manufacture and use is hereby prohibited. Any person or persons making, using, constructing or vending said Water Wheels make themselves liable to heavy damages and penalties. Parties interested will take notice I shall prosecute such infringements to the utmost extent of the law.

That all may know I do so what I say, and am not playing "Bluff," I give the following extract from a legal opinion on this subject from one of the most eminent Patent Attorneys in the United States:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 17, 1868.

"MR. A. MYERS: In accordance with your request we have examined the patents of Shipley's Water Wheels, and are clearly of the opinion that they do infringe the Leffel patents. In both of Shipley's Wheels he uses the upper and lower tiers of buckets precisely as Leffel does, and in this he clearly infringes. The fact that Shipley has applied another series of buckets in addition to those used by Leffel, does not relieve him from the consequences of infringement at all. He has no right to use those two tiers of buckets, whether he uses with a third, or any other number of tiers added. It is a clear infringement. Respectfully yours

DODGE & MUNN.

I hereby give notice that I will prosecute every infringement on our Patents, whether it is the maker, user, buyer or seller. Every infringement whether our claims are used in whole or in part, will be prosecuted.

A. MYERS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.

616 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are silently going down to an early grave, some of them the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation they sometimes suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his specialty for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz. Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give, One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these horrible maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who with bogus sworn to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
